

Why become a governor?

Be a part of the future of education

If you have a passion for education and training then we'd welcome your application to join the team at a forward-thinking, innovative college.

The City of Sunderland College is a large, successful college with a quality reputation based on results, including a 99.5% pass rate for technical (vocational) courses and a 100% pass rate in 16 A-Level subjects, delivering in excess of 1000 Apprenticeships in the last year with an impressive 95% securing full-time employment.

There's never been a better time to be part of our Board of Governors. With the merger of Sunderland College and Northumberland College, and with facilities across the Group, the college is on the edge of a new and exciting chapter. Forging and strengthening links with employers across the region is key to the college's ongoing success and the Board of Governors play a pivotal role in networking and opening doors to new opportunities.

The work of a Governor is enjoyable, challenging and rewarding. Governors are volunteers, coming from a variety of cultural and industry backgrounds including education, business, law, local government and the not for profit sector. What we ask in return, is that you:

- Attend meetings of the Board
- Read papers in advance of meetings
- Participate in discussions and debates
- Gain experience through membership of Board committees
- Participate in training events and attend various social events
